consulted fertility doctors for help. But so far, her efforts have completely failed. "It's so frustrating," she says. "Kourtney just sneezes and gets pregnant, but not everyone is like that."

ON-CAMERA DRAMA

"Kim and Kanye have been trying to conceive a baby brother or sister for little North for at least seven months," says a friend. "If Kanye's out of town, she will fly to wherever he is when she is ovulating so they can sleep together.

"During one of Kim's photo shoots, she even insisted that Kanye come to the set so they could have sex in a bathroom because the time was right." accused of stretching the truth, the source says this story line is painfully real for the couple.

On the March 15 season premiere, Kim says she is completely exhausted because she's "having sex 500 times a day."

Lounging in bed, with her legs in the air, she tells her sisters it's all part of the baby-making process. "The doctor said when I have sex, I have to lay down for 10 to 20 minutes," she explains. "It takes 10 minutes for a sperm to swim up there."

And if that doesn't seem like TMI, it is followed by a visit to Kim's Beverly Hills fertility doctor, Andy Huang, who gives her an ob-gyn exam — on camera! "Can I still get pregnant?" she asks while lying on the table. "I can't guarantee that," Dr. Huang responds.

HIRING A SURROGATE?

Kim admits that she and Kanye may eventually resort to a surrogate if all else fails, but she hopes it won't come to that. "I remember growing up being so close with my sisters, so I want siblings for North," Kim says. "I just want to carry my own children." 🛨

LAKE SHELTON may want to turn his chair around to face his personal life. The Voice coach's wife, Miranda Lambert, raised eyebrows last month when she was spotted flirting up a storm with country crooner Chris Young during a night out at Losers Bar in Nashville. "Miranda and Chris were really into each other," dishes an eyewitness. "They were acting like a couple."

The blonde beauty, 31, who married Blake in 2011 after five years of dating, has been friends with Chris, 29, for years. The "Neon" singer opened for Miranda during her On Fire tour in 2012, and close sources reveal that their deep friendship may have planted the seed for a newfound romance. "A tour can take a lot out of you," says the insider, "and they confided in each other. They stayed up nights just talking and she told him about the numerous issues in her marriage."

While the pair's constant text messages and frequent hangouts are known to Miranda's close group of girlfriends, Blake, 38, is still in the dark. "Miranda and Chris' bond has bothered him on occasion," admits the pal, "but he doesn't think anything serious is going on. He's so busy with his own music and filming The Voice that he has no idea how much they really talk."

For now, the "Somethin' Bad" singer plans to continue to have her cake and eat it too. "Miranda loves having this picture-perfect country marriage," says the source, "but the truth is, she's often lonely." *

Amanda Seyfried and Justin Long are in it for the long haul! The Going the Distance actor, who's been dating the Ted 2 star since September 2013, recently let it slip that they're on their way to the altar. During a trip to a Hollywood Petco with his nephew and brother, Justin, 36, was overheard calling Amanda his fiancée. While the blonde beauty, 29, wasn't present for the errand run, she was spotted a few days later on Feb. 28 in L.A. with a huge ring on her left hand. "It wasn't on her ring finger, but it definitely looked like an engagement ring," reveals an eyewitness. And friends of the duo say they can't wait to take the next step. "Justin would make her his wife tomorrow if he could," says the source. "They're very much in love." **

And while Bill, 43, is eager to settle down in his hometown of Chicago, Giuliana, 40, wants to stay in L.A. "She's in high demand with E! News, so California is where she needs to be," says a pal. "She flies back and forth, but it's starting to take a toll on her." In fact, Giuliana was spotted looking visibly upset with Bill while house hunting in L.A. on March 4. ITH tears streaming down her makeup-free face, Julia Roberts sat sobbing on a Los Angeles sidewalk on Feb. 17. Despite her husband, Danny Moder, standing just feet away, the distraught actress was consoled instead by her

The Secret in Their Eyes costar Chiwetel Ejiofor.

While the emotional scene took place on the set of her latest movie, Julia's obvious heartache wasn't just good acting. Friends say she's been crying nonstop lately, because her marriage is falling apart! "They've been desperately trying to make it work, but Danny's reached a breaking point, and he's done," a source reveals. Now, as Danny prepares a possible exit strategy, Star has the latest on what led the couple to their painful unraveling.

A CYCLE OF HURT

It's been a devastating 13 months for Julia, 47, whose half sister, Nancy Motes, committed suicide in February 2014, and whose beloved mother, Betty Lou Bredemus, lost her battle with lung cancer just weeks ago, on Feb. 19. But while her friends rallied around Julia on the day of Betty Lou's death, Danny looked carefree while surfing in Malibu. Some wondered why Julia's husband wasn't there for her in her moment of need, but members of her inner circle tell Star that all the drama in Julia's life has been too much for Danny,

46, to handle. "He knows it's not Julia's fault that bad things keep happening, but he says being married to her is like living in a soap opera," says one family insider. "She is a very emotional person — screaming one minute and apologizing the next — and he can't take it anymore. He wants out."

Danny's desire to leave has been a long time coming. Friends say the couple fight constantly and that their arguments are largely focused around Julia's controlling ways. "Danny is a simple guy and doesn't spend a lot of money, but Julia constantly monitors what he does spend, and it drives him crazy. She treats him like a child," the source says. "They also fight over the kids. She thinks Danny is too relaxed with them and lets them do whatever they want. And he thinks she's too uptight."

The couple have been trying for years to repair their rocky relationship; they've even gone through couples therapy, but it didn't help much. "Julia just used their sessions to vent all her anger and frustration; she'd just keep pointing the finger at him and ignore her own faults," the source says. "So Danny gave up trying to discuss things with her, because anything he says falls on deaf ears."

A "WORKING" SOLUTION

Friends say Julia has acknowledged one big mistake she's made in their 12-year marriage: She effectively sabotaged Danny's career. When they first met, as coworkers on the set of 2001's The Mexican, cameraman Danny was an aspiring cinematographer. But after marrying one of the world's most successful actresses, he didn't need to work anymore — and Julia discouraged him from taking more jobs.

Fast-forward 14 years, though, and friends say Danny feels unfulfilled with his life, working only occasionally on small projects while spending most of his days surfing, running

Moving On?

"Danny still loves the woman he fell for all those years ago. He loves the mother of his children. But he doesn't love her temper tantrums and her controlling behavior," a friend says. "He's warned her too many times, "It has to stop!"

Falling Apart When Julia was photographed crying on the set of her new film on Feb. 17, it wasn't just a plot point. Friends say Danny had been threatening to leave her, and her ailing mother had taken a turn for the worse. Then, two days after this photo was taken, Julia's mom passed away. AFTER STRUGGLING THROUGH MULTIPLE TRAGEDIES OVER THE PAST YEAR, JULIA ROBERTS MAY SOON BE DEALT ANOTHER DEVASTATING BLOW: HUSBAND DANNY MODER IS THREATENING TO LEAVE HER. BR

Abandonment Issues

Upon learning that her mother had passed away the morning of Feb. 19. Julia raced to her mom's house, where she grieved alongside friends and family. But oddly, the person closest to Julia — her own husband — was missing from the family gathering. Photos later emerged of Danny surfing in Malibu during his wife's family crisis, and friends wondered how he could abandon Julia when she needed him most. "It says a lot about the state of their marriage," says one insider. "He should have been there for her."

errands for his superstar wife and playing Mr. Mom to their three children, twins Hazel and Phinnaeus, 10, and Henry, 7. "He'd started resenting her for everything. Then, one day, they had a huge argument and he lost it," the insider reveals. "He demanded she stop hindering his dreams and let him be his own person. Then, all of a sudden, he blurted out: 'Being with you is a living nightmare!'"

Those hurtful words sent Julia into a tailspin. "Danny's a very chilled-out person, so seeing him snap sent her scrambling to try and make things right," the source explains. "She got him the director of photography job on The Normal Heart. It was a big step up for him: He'd never been a D.P. on such a high-profile project before."

While the couple worked together on the HBO film — with Julia in front of the camera and Danny behind it — tensions started to ease. And the success of the movie, which earned them each an Emmy nomination last year, bolstered Danny's confidence. "It satisfied him for a while and made him feel like he was doing something more than just being Mr. Julia Roberts," the source explains. "Before that film, he was considering leaving her. But the buzz surrounding their work together did good things for their relationship."

As the excitement over the film's success faded, however, the arguments started erupting again. "Julia and Danny restrain themselves in public, but when they do let loose, it's explosive," the friend says. "Danny is at his wit's end; he's been threatening to leave her. She cried to her friends about it, saying, 'How could he do this to me!"

Terrified at the prospect of losing her husband — especially after losing two other loved ones in just over a year — Julia launched another campaign to lift his spirits, from kissing him passionately in public to finding another project for them to work on together. "She saw him light up after The Normal Heart," the friend notes, "so as a last-ditch attempt to see that spark again, she got him the cinematographer job on The Secret in Their Eyes."

This time, however, working together hasn't helped Danny and Julia to reconnect; instead, it's broadened the divide between them. "Danny is doing a brilliant job, and everyone is telling him so. But Julia just can't take a backseat," the insider says. "She keeps reminding everyone that she brought him on board. And she's smothering him, making a show of kissing him on set. It's embarrassing."

WHAT'S AT STAKE

If Julia doesn't give Danny more freedom soon, friends say he might leave her, as he's been threatening to for months. "But Julia won't go down without a battle," the insider says. "She's not used to losing."

And given her $225 million fortune, Julia stands to lose a lot. While their prenup reportedly entitles Julia to all of the earnings from her film work in the event of a divorce, the couple would still have to split their other assets (including their multiple houses), and she would likely have to pay Danny spousal support—a sum that could soar to astronomical figures if Danny were to prove that he sacrificed his career for her.

The actress' biggest concern, however, is their kids. Because Danny has devoted so much of his time to raising them, he could be awarded full custody. "He's a great dad, and Julia knows it. When they talk about the state of their marriage, he brings up that point."

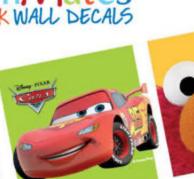

Friends are bracing for an epic showdown if Danny does walk. "It's not going to be pretty, that's for sure," the source adds. "Julia is playing nice right now, but she's got a sting in her tail, and she'll use it if he actually leaves." *

PEEL, STICK DONE!

HEN filling out her initial contestants' questionnaire for The Bachelor, Chicago-based fertility nurse Whitney Bischoff answered the question, "What are you most afraid of?" with this reply: "Being alone." Later in the season, during a date with star Chris Soules in his home state of Iowa, Whitney gave some insight into that cryptic statement. "I don't have any parents," she sadly explained to Chris. "My mom, almost 10 years ago, went in for a routine procedure, and there was a complication — she suffered a blood clot. She died instantly." As for her dad, the only thing Whitney would say was, "I don't have a relationship with my father."

Now Star has exclusively learned the backstory to her fractured family and estrangement from her father. And her demons resulting from the circumstances could very well impact her relationship with Chris, 33, down the road, says a family source, now that he and Whitney, 29, are engaged after he chose her on the series' finale.

"Whitney's dad walked out on the family when she was just a little girl," the source tells Star. "It was incredibly painful — and left Whitney with major trust issues."

HEARTBREAK AT HOME

Whitney's parents, Carol Singleton and Carl Bischoff, were both 20 when they wed in Louisville, Ky., in 1974. Whitney was born in June 1985, five years after her older sister, Kimberly.

"Carl and Carol were actually a good couple when they first got married, but when things went downhill, they went fast," the family source tells Star. "Carl was a plumber, and he liked to drink; his family produced homemade wine on their farm. He also had a bit of a temper, and Carol would tell me stories that would break my heart for her and the children."

The source adds, "One day, I walked over to Carol's house and she was sitting on the kitchen floor, sobbing hysterically. It was the first time I'd ever seen her cry. She told me that Carl was leaving her for another woman — and baby Whitney was there. I'll never forget the sight of the poor little girl rubbing her mom's back as she sobbed on the floor. She was so young, but she clearly knew something was wrong. It shook their world."

Another family insider tells Star: "They were having problems in their marriage, and then Carl left Carol and took up with a woman who worked with him at a plumbing company." Carol ended up filing for divorce against Carl in August 1986, just 14 months after Whitney was born. It was finalized that October, and Carol got custody of their two daughters.

But she was back in court five years later. In documents filed on Nov. 6, 1991, with the Jefferson County (Ky.) Family Court and obtained by Star, Carol claimed that, according to the terms of their divorce, Carl "is to maintain medical and health insurance coverage for the benefit of our children. I have not received an insurance card in over two years from my former husband." She also claimed Carl "has very little, if any, contact with myself or our children."

"She was the most beautiful person, inside and out. I know she's looking out for me in this entire process," Whitney has said about her mother, Carol, who died in 2005 at age 50 during a medical procedure. That's baby Whitney with her mom (left) in 1985, at the family home in Louisville.

Five days later, however, Carol asked the court to relieve Carl of the insurance coverage responsibility; a judge did so.

CAN SHE TRUST CHRIS?

Whitney's dad has been totally out of her life for years. "It's a shame she and Carl don't speak, but some families just aren't able to work things out," says the insider.

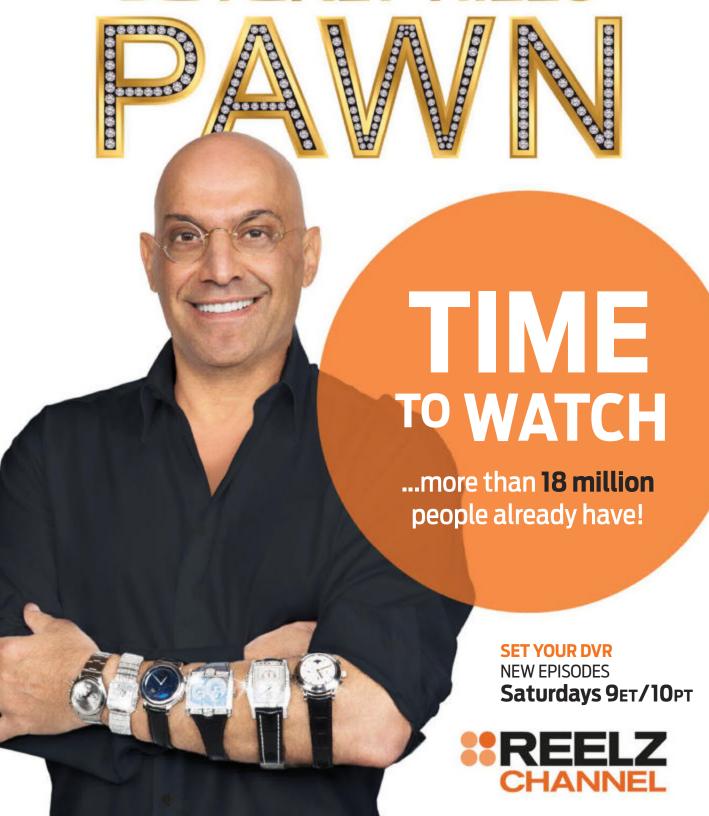

Unfortunately, while her father isn't there physically, the memory of the pain he caused her mother has stayed with her through the years, says the family source — and she'll have to get past it to make things work with Chris.

"It's been hard for Whitney to really put her trust in a partner after what she experienced," the source tells Star. "I really hope and pray that Chris is as decent a man as he seems and that he'll help make this a turning point in her life."

T started out as a short, routine flight. But within moments of taking off from the Santa Monica Airport in his single-engine plane, Harrison Ford found himself in a terrifying life-or-death battle straight out of one of his action movies.

"I could see the plane flying incredibly low and it was going from side to side," says an eyewitness, who saw the Star Wars hero take off in his classic WWII-era airplane on March 5 — only to make an emergency landing just blocks away from the runway, on Penmar Golf Course in Venice, Calif., after the plane's engine suddenly gave out. "I thought for sure the plane was going to crash and the pilot would die."

"AN INCREDIBLY STRONG MAN"

While the flight could have indeed ended in Harrison's death, the actor is a very skilled pilot. Although he's only been licensed since 1996, Harrison has been flying planes since the 1960s, and he put his extensive experience to good use. According to Harrison's former flight instructor Steve Stafford, the 72-year-old movie star handled the life-threatening situation exactly the way it should have been handled. "He takes every flight he makes seriously, and I would trust him with my own family as his passengers, today and in the future," Stafford told reporters. "The fact that he was able to 'dead stick' the plane back to a survivable landing is a lasting testament to his piloting abilities and his coolness under pressure."

Though Harrison suffered serious injuries in the crash, he is reportedly expected to make a full recovery. Soon after he was rushed to the hospital, his relieved son, chef Ben Ford, tweeted, "Dad is ok. Battered, but ok. He is every bit the man you would think he is. He is an incredibly strong man."

EXTENSIVE INJURIES

No matter how strong he may be, flying single-engine planes is a risky hobby — and his horrifying accident realized the worst fears of Harrison's loved ones, especially his wife, Calista Flockhart. "Calista has been begging Harrison to slow down with the flying for a long time now," says a source close to the couple. "She is scared to death that something tragic will happen every time he takes off."

She has good reason. The actor, who broke his leg on the set of Star Wars: The Force Awakens, has been in two crashes prior to this one, but he refuses to slow down. "The truth is that Harrison is an adrenaline junkie," the source says, adding, "Flying is what he loves to do, and he'll never stop."

Still, it looks like he may have to take a break from the action, at least for a while. With an extensive list of injuries — reportedly including broken bones and severe lacerations to his face and arms — he has a long recovery ahead of him. And there's no telling when he'll be back in the pilot's seat. "He doesn't want people to worry, but he is definitely struggling from his injuries," the source reveals. "This crash has really shaken him and the family up."

EAKS OUT

I'm the one who pushed her to do that movie," says Dean, who recalls Eddie as "a total schmoozer. Very Hollywood. I never bought his shtick." Dean had been on the set with his wife, but had to go back to the States for a week. He returned unannounced, and headed for a local bar where the cast and crew hung out.

After walking in on LeAnn and Eddie playing pool together, "I could just tell by the body language that everything had changed," says Dean. "She's shooting pool, shooting tequila, in a tight tank top, tight jeans, over-the-knee boots, and she's standing across from him, playing with the pool cue.... I literally felt like I got hit.... I walked up to her and was like, 'It's time to go!"

Soon after that, Dean decided to leave the set for good. "I remember feeling pushed out, so I left.... I totally felt foolish. I felt like this pathetic husband hanging around. I was very aware of how others were looking at me.

"The cheating wasn't the hardest part. The hardest part was someone standing in the back of the bus in the middle of nowhere and saying, 'I don't love you anymore.' I would've rather she'd said, 'I slept with 20 guys!'"

WASTED TALENT

Dean filed for divorce in 2009; it was finalized the following year, as was Eddie's divorce from Brandi. LeAnn and Eddie married in April 2011. "It felt like we were a team. [But] as it went on, the team became toxic," says Dean, who laments that LeAnn's country music career (including winning two Grammys at age 14 in 1997) seems to have come to a standstill.

"She's one of the most talented people I've ever met.... She should've been owning that format...but she got away from doing that, and it breaks my heart." *

S Duchess Kate nears her due date, she and Prince William couldn't be more excited. But there's one royal who has mixed feelings about his rapidly growing family -William's father, Prince Charles. According to insiders, the Prince of Wales feels shut out of grandson Prince George's life — and fears that with the arrival of the new baby, it will only get worse. "Prince Charles has complained to all his friends that he never gets to see Prince George," reveals a royal insider. "Kate's mother and father have taken over all the grandparenting responsibilities, and Charles is hurt and upset."

ROYAL DISAPPOINTMENT

Indeed, while Charles, 66, has rarely been seen with Prince George, Carole and Michael Middleton are nearconstant presences in the little boy's life — with the young family spending almost all their free time at Kate's parents' home in Berkshire. It's been disappointing to Charles, who has described becoming a grandfather as "a unique experience in anyone's life" and had hoped to bond with his first grandson.

But it isn't just personal. As the insider reveals, the Prince of Wales has long been put off by the "Middletonization" of the royal heir, as William and Kate strive to give George as "normal" an upbringing as possible. "He's afraid that Prince George will become too normal," the insider says. "It's very important that the future king understand his rightful place in the monarchy, but he won't if he spends all his time with the Middletons, who are commoners."

Viewing Carole and Michael's frequent babysitting visits and supervision of George's meals and naptimes as "meddling," Charles believes the toddler should be learning his royal duties along with his ABCs. "Prince Charles keeps trying to get William to understand that there are many expectations on the future King of England, but William isn't having it," the insider says. "He wants his kids to have a happy childhood—not one like his own."

ALEXANDRA PARK ९३ TOMAUSTEN

•HE crown jewel of guilty-pleasure TV, The Royals, features a scandalous fictional British monarchy full of dirty little secrets. Alexandra (Princess Eleanor) and Tom (Jasper) gave Star the 411 on the style behind the palace gates.

Tom, you're usually shirtless or in a suit. Tell us about Jasper's wardrobe.

Jasper is an incredibly mysterious and secretive character; you're never sure if he's playing a role or being himself. The suit is part of his job. I'm not sure how much of that is the real Jasper, but they got me a killer suit — and I was more than happy with it. It makes me act like James Bond.

Alexandra, how is Eleanor's personality reflected in her clothing?

She's always dressed extravagantly, with an edgy "gothic fairy" vibe. In the beginning, she wears elaborate dresses and crazy heels, which to me screams "confidence." She tries to look cheap — but in the most expensive way that she can.

Do you like dressing like a princess?

Coming into the wardrobe truck every day is like Christmas morning! My favorite outfit was for the masquerade ball (above). The dress was made for her — it is mainly feathers. It's incredibly spectacular.

If she had the Eleanor Effect like the Kate Middleton Effect, which designers would sell out? Alexander McQueen; she wears a lot of that. For casual clothing, she mixes vintage and leather with J Brand and AllSaints.

t's good to be the king — and not so bad being the queen either. But on the scandalous new series The Royals, E!'s first-ever scripted drama, it can also be deadly. One prominent member of the British monarchy finds that out when he's mysteriously murdered, setting up a moatful of drama.

But first there's the royal family, who bear only a passing resemblance to the current occupants of Buckingham Palace. Instead of proper old Elizabeth II sits a sexy, power mad Queen Helena (Elizabeth Hurley), her dashing yet thoughtful husband, King Simon (Vincent Regan), and their kids: hunky playboy heir to the throne — who falls for an outspoken commoner — Prince Liam (William Moseley) and his twin sister, Princess Eleanor (Alexandra Park).

She's a wild-child, tabloid-fodder princess who enjoys drugs, threesomes and public displays of her knickers. But there's more to Eleanor than just a royally spoiled brat. "She's a party girl, but at the end of the day she's just trying to figure out what she can do with her life to have more of a meaningful existence," Alexandra tells Star. "Eleanor wears a lot of masks — it's her way of escaping from her lack of control. She pretends that she's confident, but there's a much more vulnerable Eleanor [viewers will] meet later on in the show."

PALACE INTRIGUE

Pulling the strings on most of the drama is Hurley's cold, manipulative majesty. And she often butts crowns with her "tart" of a look-alike daughter. "That relationship is a roller coaster, but at the end of the day, Eleanor just wants to be loved by her mother," says Alexandra.

And whether it's the late Princess

Diana or Duchess Kate, Americans continue to be transfixed by British royalty. "They are the ultimate celebrities, an untouchable family and no one ever sees what they do in their palaces," explains Alexandra. "It goes back to Disney and fantasy. It's interesting for all age groups, and I think that's why our show will be pretty fascinating for people to watch."

TV Southern Charm

The rich, proper, party-loving residents of Charleston, S.C., are back for the second season of the hit reality series, which finds Thomas Ravenel and Kathryn Calhoun Dennis trying to balance family time as they prepare for Thomas' run for the U.S. Senate. Meanwhile, Shep Rose runs a hot dog restaurant and newlywed Cameran Eubanks tries to juggle a husband and career. Monday, March 16, at 10PM on Bravo

Run All Night In this actionpacked

thriller, an aging hit man (Liam Neeson) kills the son of his best friend

(Ed Harris) — who also happens to be a ruthless mob boss — in order to save the life of his own son (Joel Kinnaman). But to keep his family alive, he must go on an all-night shooting spree while eluding a determined detective (Vincent D'Onofrio) who is fast on his heels. March 13

The American Idol alum's seventh studio album delves deeper into Kelly Clarkson's personal life than ever before. She sings about the father who left when she was a child in the emotional track "Piece by Piece," which also serves as a praising love song to her husband. John Legend lends a hand on the duet cover of "Run Run Run" — the track the singer says is her favorite song ever — and her powerhouse vocals shine on the empowering single "Invincible," cowritten by Sia.

\rightarrow ONE BIG HAPPY

Premieres Tuesday, March 17, at 9:30PM on NBC

This new sitcom deals with best friends — straight guy Luke (Nick Zano) and lesbian Lizzy (Elisha Cuthbert) — who've known each other since childhood. Still single, they decide to have a baby together and live as a family. Just one problem: Almost as soon as Lizzy gets pregnant, Luke meets Prudence (Kelly Brook), an English visitor about to head back to London — and marries her. Executive produced by Ellen DeGeneres, it's a great setup for wacky family dynamics, but the humor is toothless and obvious. Snide singleton Lizzy is reduced to weak one-liners at the expense of her pal's curvy and not-too-bright new wife (gee, no stereotypes there), and what could be an intriguing premise goes nowhere.

Premieres Tuesday, March 17, at 9PM on The CW

On this series, Olivia (Rose McIver) is a young med student who is also a crime-fighting zombie. Yes, you read that right. After passing out at a boat party, she wakes up a high-functioning zombie; part of the show's mystery is how and why it happened. Liv goes to work at a hospital, where she feeds on brains from the morgue. When she does, she gets flashes of the owners' lives and clues to their murders. It's all fairly ludicrous; and while the same could be said for Buffy the Vampire Slayer, that show had wit and style. This is just silly and slow-witted.
